

PRAATT & LOGAN,
COUNSELORS AT LAW,
ALBANY, N. Y.
39 to 41 TWEDDLE BUILDING.
LOUIS W. PRAATT. GAYLORD LOGAN.

February 15th 1896.

Hon. Oliver C. Bosbyshell,

Superintendent of Mint, Phila., Pa.

Dear Sir:-

A client of ours who is engaged in the extraction of precious metals from crucibles, flux, slag, etc., has machinery and a method of working which saves a greater percentage of the precious metal and is operated at a considerable advantage in cost of working over the methods ordinarily in use. Having in mind to make an arrangement if possible for government work in that line which shall be more advantageous to the government than present methods as well as of advantage to himself he has desired us to ascertain what the practice is in regard to the working over of crucibles, flux, slag, etc., at the Philadelphia mint. And particularly as to whether this work is practically done by the government itself or by contract for them, if by contract whether under competitive bidding therefor. Will you please favor us with as much information in this respect as can be properly given us.

Should you desire any reference to be satisfied of our good standing and good faith in any undertaking we would respectfully refer you to John P. Masterson, Collector of Customs at this port, John Boyd Thatcher, Mayor of this city, Francis H. Wood, Postmaster or any other

O. C. B. 2.

PRATT & LOGAN,
COUNSELORS AT LAW,
ALBANY, N. Y.
38 to 41 TWIDDLE BUILDING.
LOUIS W. PRATT. GAYLORD LOGAN.

government, of city official; and our Mr. Pratt is Collector of Internal Revenue of this district.

Very respectfully yours,

Gaylord Logan

Pratt & Logan.
Counselors at Law.
Albany, N.Y.
February 15, 1896

Hon. Oliver C. Bosbyshell,
Superintendent of Mint, Phila., Pa.

Dear Sir: -

A client of ours who is engaged in the extraction of precious metals from crucibles, flux, slag, etc., has machinery and a method of working which saves a greater percentage of the precious metal and is operated at a considerable advantage in cost of working over the methods ordinarily in use. Having in mind to make an arrangement if possible for government work in that line which shall be more advantageous to the government than present methods as well as of advantage to himself he has desired us to ascertain what the practice is in regard to the working over of crucibles, flux, slag, etc., at the Philadelphia mint. And particularly as to whether this work is practically done by the government itself or by contract for them, if by contract whether under competitive bidding therefore. Will you please favor us with as much information in this respect as can be properly given us.

Should you desire any reference to be satisfied of our good standing and good faith in any undertaking we would respectfully refer you to John. P. Masterson, Collector of Customs at this port, John Boyd Thatcher, Mayor of this city, Francis H. Wood, Postmaster or any other government or city official; and our Mr. Pratt is Collector of Internal Revenue of this district.

Very respectfully yours,
Gaylord Logan